Fraudulent

Elsewhere on this page is reprinted an editorial from the Lynchburg (Va.) Daily Advance concerning political conventions. The two main items before the Democratic convention have already concluded. A presidential nominee, Senator John Kennedy, has been named and a platform has been adopted. The third somewhat important item, nomination of a candidate for vice president, had not been done at press time.

The Lynchburg paper refers to our national political conventions as the greatest shows on earth. Anyone watching the Los Angeles extravaganza might concur. Demonstrations for candidates, nominating speeches for candidates, particularly of the so-called favorite son variety, and even the opening prayer were an obvious play to the television and radio audience and to the newspaper readers.

At least Judge Tom Brady of Brookhaven's nomination of Gov. Ross Barnett for the Democratic presidential nomination was not one that the candidate immediately after a demonstration and a couple of seconding speeches withdrew. Governor Barnett left his hat in the ring and Judge Brady announced in advance that the supporters of the Mississippi candidate would not waste others' time with a demonstration.

Many may consider Governor Barnett's nomination a futile gesture. We do. But at least it did not have the frivolous nature attending the nomination of the governors of Iowa and Kansas, who after their nomination had wasted a half hour or so of many people's time immediately withdrew their name from consideration. In essence these prominent men stole—they stole many people's time, next to honor a person's most valuable asset.

Mostly Good

On Tuesday Bear 5 Justice of the Peace Russell Elliott tried the case of the State of Mississippi vs. Joe Kersanac. It was the first case of that magnitude JP Elliott has been called on to try in his six months in office. It was a case with many more technical and unusual legal aspects than the vast majority of those handled by our circuit and chancery courts.

Although we would disagree with several of JP Elliott's rulings, some adverse to the defendant and some to the prosecution, in witnessing the proceedings we were favorably impressed with his manner and his conduct of the case.

With JP Elliott's holdings that the state failed to prove its charge and that the Mississippi blue law, Section 2369 of the Mississippi Code of 1946 is void, this editor concurs. Other JP's and judges may hold differently. On the constitutional question JP Elliott has the very recent concurrence of two Virginia courts. Last week two different Virginia courts held Virginia's blue law void.

Letters to The Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

As a lover of animals, I should like to reply to Miss Dillman's letter; I was deeply touched, while reading of what happened, in the tragic fate of other.

It is all so very true, there are some who have no compassion for dumb beasts, nor their fellow human beings. Perhaps if a very low subched horn took from a vehicle on the highways were used instead of the loud, startling blast, it would be a safe warning signal to those ahead to clear the way. Some people do take a horrific delight inflicting pain upon helpless living things, and just considering the source, does not minimize the pain, or resulting sorrow.

Thank Heaven we do have people with feelings and understand like Miss Dillman, and I sincerely hope the general public will be guided by her self-experience and be more considerate in such cases on the highways.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

One of the most serious and most interesting areas of Southern literature, the Negro section, has been effectively neglected. I hope to collect a number of short stories and poems to that they can be made available to the general public. Perhaps the readers of your newspaper could help me locate more interesting pieces of this sort.

I would appreciate any assistance which you could give me—perhaps a small announcement of my plans. All inquiries or information should be sent to the address below. I am a native of Memphis, Tenn., a graduate of Harvard College, and a National Defense Fellow at the University of Buffalo.

Very sincerely yours,

Being fully aware of the importance of the decision of this court, the evidence both in favor of and against the defendant has been very carefully studied.

There has been very learned and experienced counsel for both the plaintiff and the defendant, and both have been extremely well represented.

As counsel knows, a justice of the peace is not required to be a lawyer nor a member of the bar. He must only be an American citizen of normal intelligence, capable of reading and writing, who believes in Americanism, the democratic way of life and have been voted into office by the majority. Therefore, because of these facts, it is the court's belief that a justice, unschooled in law, is not bound nor qualified to render a decision solely on the basis of the law's wording. He is not qualified nor capable of doing so regardless of how diligently he endeavors to do so.

True, ignorance of the law at no time is an excuse and we are given counsel for the interpretation of the law, but even the counsels do not interpret exactly alike. Because in numerous instances where there is a choice, counsel interprets the law to the best interest of their clients, which affords a client good representation and that is as it should be, but it raises a question again, to where the judge must decide and rule whose interpretation is right.

Therefore a justice must seek further than the letter of the law to reach his decision. He must study all evidence, always unbiasedly, he must add to the law, as he understands it, ordinary common sense to it, the situation, location and circumstances and add to his finding the weight of the majority and his sincere desire to render a fair and honest decision.

I cannot and do not feel that the law is made to exert unnecessary and undue hardship upon a citizen, an organization or a community. Even the Lord himself, through his numerous churches, makes necessary concession in service schedules and other individual religious functions, to allow parishioners to provide for and care for their families. There is nothing in any religion more important than a God fearing, loving and devoted family! Our Constitution of this great country provides for the rights of all, the freedom of all and the opportunity to support and raise a family through work and time of one's own choice. Even the Mississippi State Statute makes exception which is a consideration, but a discrimination. We have no rich community from a standpoint of industry, scheduled working hours or other such regulated source of revenue and without the little extra income from our visitors, travelers, tourists and some local Sunday Bathers, a goodly number of these local merchants would fail, then through the writing of a state law, in opposition of our constitution, force undue hardship on our community.

As I stated before, I am not a lawyer schooled in law and if in error, further rulings in this case can be obtained. That is the right and protection against the "technical legal" ignorance of a justice. Therefore we are still faced with the judgment of this court in the case the State vs. Joseph Kersanac. This justice feels that the Constitution of this great country which states in so many words of the people, for the people and by the people means the majority in a democracy shall rule. That there will be no discrimination of a few, but

Blame Cow in Wreck

Two pick-up trucks were damaged and the drivers injured Sunday night in an accident on Route 604 near White Cypress community when one truck apparently hit a cow knocking it into the path of the other truck, according to Deputy Sheriff James Ladner, who with Beat 4 constable Jarvis Morris, investigated.

Ladner said he received a

FIRST LITTLE LEAGUE WINNERS — The 7-Ups managed by Red Davis took the opening game of the Little League Sunday evening from Ken's Little Diggers 5-4.

Little Leaguers Season Gets Under Way Sunday

Little League baseball got underway officially Sunday evening at City Ball Park when Mrs. Ned Tudury, director of the Parks and Playground Commission welcomed several hundred spectators in behalf of the commissioners and city fathers and introduced the teams, their sponsors and city officials.

Commissioner Warren Traub took the mound to toss the ball to his catcher and fellow commissioner Cyril Glover.

In a brief talk, Mrs. Tudury said the league was composed of eight teams and that the sponsors had invested $1,500 for uniforms and equipment for the boys. She thanked all who helped make her long-cherished dream come true.

"Who knows," she said, "we may see a future San Francisco Giant or Yankee tonight."

Rich Clapp is in charge of the project which is supervised by a commission. The boys practice every day from 9 to 11 a.m. and will play every afternoon 3:30 with one night game a week. Anyone wishing to join can do so by registering at the K.C. He will be placed in a swimming pool and assigned to a team by Nolan Ladner, players' agent. Curtis Matherne was named umpire in chief. An all-star game will be played later in the season.

First game of the season was won by 7-Ups, managed by Red Davis, edging Ken's Little Diggers 5-4. Winning pitcher was Pat Cullen who went all the way. Edmond Schindler started for the Diggers and was relieved by Freddie Breland in the fourth.

In the nightcap Al Summy, managed by John Ladner and Lucas Pucheu won over Fahey, managed by Billie Osbourn, 11-9. Bobby Cullen pitched the first four innings for Summy and was declared winning pitcher although relieved by Earl Fayard in the fifth.

Monday Coast Electric defeated the Junior Sheriffs 11-8.

Trapani Gets Back In Winning Column
